Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Foreign Market Risks – Investments in foreign markets may present risks not typically associated with domestic markets. These risks may include changes in currency exchange rates; less-liquid markets and less available information; less government supervision of exchanges, brokers, and issuers; increased social, economic, and political uncertainty; and greater price volatility. These risks may be greater in emerging markets, which may also entail different risks from developed markets. • Risks associated with investing in India – Investments by the Sub-Fund in equity and equity related instruments of small and mid capitalisation companies that are domiciled in India and/or mainly active in India are subject to the changing governmental economic, political or market conditions in India which may impact the share price of the companies that the Sub-Fund invests in. developments, adverse investor perceptions or regulatory and government intervention (including the possibility of widespread trading suspensions implemented by domestic regulators). In extreme market conditions, there may be no willing buyer for an investment and so that investment cannot be readily sold at the desired time or price, and consequently the Sub-Fund may have to accept a lower price to sell the relevant investment or may not be able to sell the investment at all. An inability to sell a particular investment or portion of the Sub-Fund's assets can have a negative impact on the value of the Sub-Fund or prevent the Sub-Fund from being able to take advantage of other investment opportunities. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There may be a 10% limit on the number of Shares of a Class that can be redeemed on a Dealing Day. Therefore, a redemption request may be deferred to the next Dealing Day (which is subject to the same limit) if redemptions exceed the limit on that day.
Product-Specific Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Issuer Specific Risk – A security issued by a particular issuer may be impacted by factors that are unique to that issuer and thus may cause that security's return to differ from that of the market. • Small and Medium Capitalisation Companies Risk – Investing in small and medium capitalisation companies involves higher risks compared to larger capitalisation companies, including significant price volatility and less liquidity.
